Dear Mrs. Lincoln:

I'm a student who loves to read, and that's why I'm writing to you. I think your school library needs a new checkout rule. Students should get to check out more books.

Right now, kids can check out only as many books as the number of their grade. Fast readers often finish their books before the next library day. Then they have to wait to get more books.

This rule keeps some kids from reading as many books as they could. Please think about a new checkout rule. Thank you for reading my letter.

Sincerely,
